512 - DEANDRE PETERSEN

In 1971, a skyjacker with a briefcase bomb demanded a $200,000 ransom and a parachute. Then he vanished out the jet's back door and became an instant legend. Now a determined citizen sleuth has assembled a forty-member cold case team, spearheaded by former FBI agents, to solve the mystery of D. B. Cooper. And after a five-year quest, they believe they have succeeded—with a fugitive at trail's end. The team's relentless investigation and final confrontation with the mystery man serve as the bookends in The Last Master Outlaw. The subject's astonishing life story as a daredevil fills the remaining chapters, the bulk of which comes from the heartwarming, gut-wrenching accounts of six of his women—two former wives; his only sister; a befriended college coed; a "getaway gal" he met up with during two more FBI escapes, both again involving planes; and a Hollywood producer who was also his cocaine-trade partner. Buckle your seatbelts as this Jekyll-and-Hyde ladies' man travels through five countries, utilizing more than a dozen identities, wigs, and fake mustaches while engaging in a half-dozen careers and raising three families. Then be a witness as the cornered chameleon is forced to face the truth in front of the cameras of a dogged cold case team, which was armed and ready for any eventuality.

Word search puzzles don't get much better than this." —Will Shortz, Puzzlemaster for National Public Radio's "Weekend Edition" Add a touch of wackiness to ordinary word search fun for a little extra challenge. Instead of ordinary squares and rectangles, these puzzles come in really wild shapes or have an entertaining twist. Each word search has a theme to go along with the distinctive picture; for example, a grid in the shape of a smiley face has clues that deal with being happy. A tulip puzzle features flowers as its subject. In addition, 10 puzzles have special gimmicks: in three rebuses, little symbols replace certain letter combinations (such as a picture of a teacup in place of T-E-A). "Movie Editing" plays a little game with Hollywood films, by giving them a one-word title change to create a very different plot.

Zick has a huge secret: He can see invisible ghosts and monsters that no one else can. It's his job to tame those monsters and protect people. There's just one problem: Zick is allergic to just about everything—including monsters! The Monster Allergy adventure continues in this exciting second volume. There's a giant monster plant growing beneath the streets of Oldmill Village, and what's worse, Zick's mystical pet cat and monster tutor, Timothy, has been catnapped! It's up to Zick and his friend Elena Potato to rescue Timothy and all the other stolen cats—but they won't find themselves up against any ordinary cat thief. The despicable Magnacat might look like a normal businessman, but he's actually a shape-changing Gorka—one of a dangerous race of monsters that can take any form and control people's minds! Magnacat is determined to take over the peaceful monster city of Bibbur-Si and is hunting down special cats like Timothy to do it. Zick will have to rely on all his newfound monster-taming powers if he's to defeat Magnacat, but will it be enough? Find out in Monster Allergy, Vol. 2!

Short subject films have a long history in American cinemas. These could be anywhere from 2 to 40 minutes long and were used as a "filler" in a picture show that would include a cartoon, a newsreel, possibly a serial and a short before launching into the feature film. Shorts could tackle any topic of interest: an unusual travelogue, a comedy, musical revues, sports, nature or popular vaudeville acts. With the advent of sound-on-film in the mid-to-late 1920s, makers of earlier silent short subjects began experimenting with the short films, using them as a testing ground for the use of sound in feature movies. After the Second World War, and the rising popularity of television, short subject films became far too expensive to produce and they had mostly disappeared from the screens by the late 1950s. This encyclopedia offers comprehensive listings of American short subject films from the 1920s through the 1950s.
